

Turkey – Huge country-huge system-huge challenge

This project is a good opportunity to know different culture to meet with people from different country. In Turkey it was true especially.

On Monday

We met with the teachers of Tuna ilkokulu and Serkan talked about the Turkish education system and their school particularly how they could integrate socially disadvantaged groups or refugees children from multicultural and multi-linguistic groups. We visited the classes and we could observe some non formal activities.

At the end of the day we could talk with a teacher who was participant in the course and she talked about her experience.

On Tuesday

We could observe some non formal activities also and visited a special school and they showed us their best practices.

On Wednesday

We met some leader of the turkish education system and we talked a lot about the turkish education system. The turkish education system is huge so it is very intresting how the government organizes it. We visited two other school. International Kaptan Ahmet Erdogan secondary school is a special school for talented children from all world. It was very interesting to talk with them about their plans and why did they choose this school what they thought about their future. Lots of children came from another country what is so far away from Turkey and they spend lots of time far away from their families.

On Thursday

We visited Local Authority Of Education and we could know the turkish education system deeper. How somebody became to teacher, how could a teacher start to work in a school in Turkey. I realized that special education qualification was at inchoate level and it determined lots of things.

We visited a very special class with refugees and their parents.

On Friday

We summarized our experiences and discussed what did it mean refugees, immigration for us and for them.

It was very interesting to know a so different system.
